"Financial security is about more than wealth protection; it's about the happiness and well-being of the entire family."

A licensed insurance professional in July 1986, Mory Karimian has been licensed to sell mutual funds and variable annuities since 1990. He focuses in strategies for closely held businesses and estate conservation for owners and other key professionals.

Mory believes his role is to be an advocate acting on behalf of his clients and helping them build and preserve their wealth. He also feels that he speaks for the children and spouses who would be affected by the premature death or disability of the breadwinner or by a lack of preparation for their future. He always works toward the entire family's financial stability and well-being.

Making Chattanooga his home since 1980, Mory has been an active member in a variety of civic organizations including the Hamilton Place Rotary, NAIFA of Chattanooga, and the Chattanooga Junior Chamber of Commerce, where he served on the Board of Directors for two years.

Particularly close to his heart is the River Valley Chapter of the March of Dimes, where he served as an at-large board member, executive board member, committee chairman, and treasurer before serving as chairman of the board in 1999 and 2000.

Mory feels if he can make a difference in someone else's life by his involvement in these great organizations, it is but a small token of his appreciation for a community that has been so wonderful to him and his family. He currently lives with his wife, Rachel, and their children, Tahereh (Rae) and Dahra, in the Signal Mountain area.
